

MED 420 Medical Teaching Elective
Teaching and Learning Plan

There are three components to your teaching and learning plan for the Medical Teaching Elective which should be approximately 500 words

Three Components:

1. A brief history of your teaching experience and what traits you value in a teacher. (See <http://www.teachingperspectives.com/tpi/> for an assessment of several teaching domains for more insight into the latter)
2. A brief description of the role you envision for yourself as a teacher in your career. e.g., would you like to work in a setting that would allow you to teach students and residents, faculty in a medical school, or focusing primarily on patient education.
3. Close by reflecting on your goals for the teaching experience ahead of you in this course and how it can help move you toward your professional goals in medical education. How will you be able to evaluate those goals at the end of the course?
